

The Student-Leader Seminar (S-LS) is a Service-Disabled Veteran-Owned Small Business (SDVOSB) registered as a leadership, ethics, and character education provider with local and state government agencies, organizations within the U.S. Federal Government and the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA). S-LS delivers leadership seminars that are custom-designed to introduce the topic of ethical leadership to federal government and public service professionals, members of law enforcement, leaders in the non-profit and corporate sectors as well as educators and student-athletes. The seminars consist of highly-interactive sessions built around the themes of leading with purpose, ethical decision making, and the value of character. Past customers include senior leaders from The NATO Partnership for Peace Program (Kazakhstan, Bulgaria, Romania, others), The Chicago Fire and Police Departments, Israeli Defense Force, The Lehigh Valley Interscholastic Athletic Conference, Psychological Service of the Indonesian Army, Wildland Firefighters of the Pacific Northwest, DeSales University, Bucknell Bison Leadership Academy, US Customs and Border Protection Leadership Institute, Shore Leadership Program, Travis Manion Foundation-Character Does Matter Program, the Maryland Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics, Philadelphia Academy of School Leaders, and many others. Through the use of diagnostic assessments, S-LS works closely with organizations to fine-tune performance needs and provide the coaching, support, and motivation needed to take leadership to the next level.

Steve Robbins is a highly-regarded leadership educator and program director of executive-level leadership programs with over 25 years of extensive and progressive experience in adult education, human performance improvement, and leadership program management, design, development, and evaluation for leaders of corporate (for-profit), non-profit, federal government, and public service organizations. Steve is the President and CEO of Student-Leader Seminar (S-LS), a Service-Disabled, Veteran-Owned Small Business (SDVOSB), that delivers highly-engaging sessions built around the themes of leading with purpose, ethical decision-making, and the value of character. As a former Marine Corps officer, Steve served as the Director of Training Management and Evaluation overseeing the instruction, curriculum development, an evaluation of all Marine Corps training and education programs. In the private sector, Steve served as the Manager of Customer Service Operations and Workforce Training for McGraw-Hill Education, a learning science company and one of the "big three" educational publishers. In addition to his position with Student-Leader Seminar, Steve also currently serves as the Program Director for Executive Education Programs for the University of Maryland, R.H. Smith School of Business. These leadership programs educate top level executives on topics encompassing strategic thinking, leading change, building trust, improving employee engagement, managing conflict, etc. in order to prepare participants for increased levels of responsibility within their organization. Steve earned his BA in Political Science and his Masters of Education (MEd) from the University of Florida. Steve and his wife Angie have four children and reside in Columbus, Ohio.